Rules & Regulations

1. Maximum of 500 entries will be accepted. The maximum number of birds from one farm is 50.
2. Exhibitors who show as a partnership shall be limited to the 50 birds regardless of how many properties the birds are housed on. Households with more than one exhibitor showing shall be limited to 50 birds in total.
3. Tags issued by the OHW must not be altered or changed.
- 4.. It is strongly recommended that exhibitors of chickens and quail vaccinate for Laryngotracheitis (ILT) and observe the 30 day quarantine prior to the show..
5. Entries must state exact number of birds. Exhibitors must have specimens correctly named and state class and section in which they are entered. All specimens must be entered in the name of the actual owner. The owner must be able to prove ownership for at least 30 days prior to the OHW. The committee has the authority to reject any exhibits showing signs of disease or those of inferior quality.
6. Stationary coops and feed will be provided by OHW.
7. Cockerels and pullets must be hatched on or after January 1st of the year of the show. Penalties will be imposed when fraudulent practices are detected on the part of any exhibitor.
8. Exhibitors are limited to 2 entries per class, except those showing less than 15 entries. These exhibitors may enter three entries in order to make up 15 entries or less.
9. The poultry show is open and will accept any recognized breed of chickens, waterfowl, turkeys, pigeons, or quail No trio class.
10. All birds (except pigeons and quail) will be judged 100% according to the American Standard of Perfection. Pigeons will be judged according to their respective breed standards.
11. All colors of each breed in pigeons will be judged together, except where there are four or more of a recognized color shown. In this case, a color class will be made for that color. All quail colors will be judged together in breed (see class list).
12. Water cups will be provided by OHW. All exhibitors are required to use them.
13. Exhibitors shall not be permitted to remove dividers from pens.
14. Substitutions will not be accepted at the time of arrival of entries. Exhibitors may make substitutions up until the Thursday prior to arrival.
